Sun to Add New Monday Paper Oct. 5

Changeover Due To Fast Growth Of Desert Area

The news Desert area residents have been waiting for — the changeover of The Desert Sun from a five-day to a six-day Daily Newspaper — was announced today by President George E. Cameron, Jr.

This will offer Desert Sun readers complete daily coverage of the Desert area, with issues appearing Monday through Saturday.

FIRST MONDAY issue is scheduled to appear on Oct. 5 at homes of subscribers, and on newsstands throughout this area.

"Addition of a Monday paper is a step which we have been contemplating for some time," Cameron said. "And we believe that the rapid growth of the Desert area has now made it a necessity."

"It's a move that demonstrates our complete confidence in future growth," Cameron continued, "for it means the expenditure of many thousands of dollars for new equipment — plus the addition of personnel in editorial and other departments to better serve Desert Sun readers."

THE DESERT SUN president disclosed that the new equipment has been on order for some time, with the announcement of the changeover delayed until definite arrival date was confirmed.

The six-day publication will mark the third major progressive change in operation effected by Sun Publisher Ward J. Risvold since he became associated with The Desert Sun in 1952.

First was consolidation of The Desert Sun and Palm Springs News and issuance of The Desert Sun as a bi-weekly. Then came changeover of The Sun to a five-day daily, and soon it will appear Monday through Saturday.

"KEEPING PACE with the Desert's rapid growth has been responsible for each change," Risvold said. "We have kept faith with our readers and advertisers by each move."

Further details of the changeover will be announced between now and the first Monday issue — Oct. 5.

Storm Brings Half Inch of Rain

A long - threatened storm drummed the city with as much as .52 of an inch of rain late Saturday and early Sunday for the city's heaviest rainfall this year.

The storm felled a few trees and caused an hour-long power failure early Sunday morning, but caused no major damage, police reported today.

Weather observers at the Palm Springs Fire Department said the rainfall measured .52 of an inch in downtown Palm Springs and .35 of an inch at Fire Station No. 2, at East Ramon Road and Sunrise Way.

U.N. Fact Team Arrives in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos — UPI — A four-man United Nations fact-finding team arriving here today to check on a reported Communist invasion ran into a Soviet charge it was here illegally.

The Soviets said Monday night the team was not the proper instrument for resolving the Lao-tian crisis.

THEY CALLED instead for a conference "without delay" of the countries that attended the 1954 Geneva conference that created Laos, North Viet Nam and South Viet Nam out of what was once French Indo-China.

The team prepared to begin its work despite the Russian attack, however. The Soviets were expected to formally protest creation of the team in the U.N. General Assembly, which opens today in New York.

LLOYD FRANK

Lloyd Frank Succumbs at Portland, Ore.

Lloyd Frank, 72 long time winter resident and member of the prominent Portland, Ore., family who owned Portland's oldest and largest department store, Meier and Frank, died Sunday in a Portland hospital.

Brother of Aaron Frank, president of Meier & Frank, he was former treasurer of the firm but had been retired for many years. He and his wife, Orpha, lived here in Palm Springs at 425 Vereda del Norte. She is active in the Women's Auxiliary of Desert Hospital and in Desert Circus Week promotion.

BESIDES THE widow, survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Leslie Sherman and Mrs. Lew Russell, Jr., both of Portland.

In ill health in recent years, Frank had been through the clinic at La Jolla, but was felling well enough this summer that he and his wife went north for the Oregon Centennial and to be there for the observance of another anniversary for the store, which was founded before Oregon achieved statehood.

HE WAS TAKEN ill and hospitalized about a fortnight ago and was on off the critical list a week before his death.

Funeral services were held in Portland at 11:30 this morning.

Mrs. Frank had requested that, instead of flowers, contributions be made to the Women's Auxiliary of Desert Hospital Memorial Fund.

School Explosion In Texas Kills Six

HOUSTON, Tex. UPI — A tremendous explosion shattered the Edgar A. Poe Elementary School shortly after 10 a. m. today, killing several students and a man who may have tossed a bomb into the building.

A newsman who reached the scene shortly after the explosion said he counted "at least six dead," including a white man about 30 years old.

The school is attended by white children only. None of the schools in Houston are integrated.

The sheriff's office said that it was told that "someone threw a bomb on the school basketball court."

seemed confident the team would make an on-the-spot investigation in rebellion - torn northern Laos, despite a U.N. report the fact-finders would stay in Vientiane.

The U.N. Security Council sent the team here at the request of the royal Lao-tian government, which charged the Pathet Lao Communist rebels had received aid in the form of arms and troops from Communist North Viet Nam.

THE U. N. TEAM, headed by Japan's Shinichi Shibusawa, was met on its arrival here from Bangkok by a delegation headed by acting Foreign Minister Sisouk Nachampassak.

The team members were scheduled to call on several Laotian officials, including Prime Minister Phoui Sananikone. The team is made up of members from Japan, Italy, Tunisia and Argentina.

Khrushchev Greeted by Eisenhower

Red Leader's Jet Lands Hour Behind Schedule

WASHINGTON — UPI — Premier Nikita Khrushchev, beaming, waving his hat and gesturing to President Eisenhower with his hands, arrived today for a fateful 13-day visit that could turn the course of the cold war—for better or for worse.

The Soviet leader's mammoth TU114 turbo-prop arrived almost an hour behind schedule. Confusion was compounded when the great craft had to be turned around on the runway so that Khrushchev emerged on the other side of the plane from the color guard that was lined up for him.

EISENHOWER WENT around the plane and greeted the Soviet leader at the foot of a specially built 27-step ramp.

The President shook hands heartily with Khrushchev, with his wife, Mrs. Nina Khrushchev, and with Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

IT WAS THE first time in his career that Khrushchev had been accorded the full honors of a visiting chief of state and he got the full treatment — 21-gun cannon salute, review of an honor guard of the four U. S. armed services, reception by the top-ranking officials of the American government and their wives, and the playing of the national anthems of the two nations.

Both men made brief and formal opening statements at the airport. Eisenhower assured Khrushchev that the people of the United States bore those of the Soviet Union no ill will.

BUT EISENHOWER added the last statement that the two nations were quite different because in America "people themselves establish and control the government."

Weather

Desert area forecast: Sunny today and Wednesday. Winds 15-30 miles an hour at times. Highs 90-100 lower valleys. Slightly warmer Wednesday.

Village Fire Department Given Praise

Underwriters Action Disclosed By City Manager

Counteracting previous criticism the National Board of Fire Underwriters has commended the Palm Springs Fire Department for its action at the $350,000 Desert Farmers Market fire.

The praise was disclosed by City Manager Dan Wagner at the City Council's informal luncheon session at the Chi Chi yesterday — during discussion of the $2,200 Del Pico Lodge fire Saturday.

THE FIRE Underwriters termed the market fire fighting a "good job," and said that the damage could have been more extensive except for the good work done by the department and volunteers.

The fire Saturday—which came up for discussion because only four firemen were at the scene — brought an inquiry from Councilwoman Mary Carlin as to who should fight local fires and "to what fires should Fire Chief Bill Leonosio go?"

LEONOSIO, PRESENT at the meeting, told the council that he did not have to be present at the Del Pico fire — even though it was a structural blaze — because the people he had in charge reported to him that it was under control.

He made special note of the fact that the "press had made something big out of fires during the past two months."

Mountain Fire Continues Today

A smoldering, lightning-caused fire continued to burn at the 8,000-foot level of San Jacinto for the third straight day today.

But forestry officials said there was no danger of the fire spreading to brush or timber lands.

FUND 'BORROWING' DRAWS CRITICISM

A proposal to "keep" money to be borrowed from the DeMuth Park Fund for the purchase of golf carts for the Palm Springs Golf Course yesterday drew the wrath of at least one councilman and the vow that the park fund "will be reimbursed — for every cent we borrow."

City Attorney Jerry Bunker told the council yesterday a study of the will of the late Adolph A. DeMuth showed that the council could use the funds to purchase golf carts for the municipal links.

"AND IF YOU DO use these funds," said the city attorney, "I would recommend that you not replace them in the fund because it is too difficult to get them out."

But members of the City Council didn't believe that that type of action was "cricket," and Councilman Ted McKinney said that every penny was going to be put back into the fund for the "development of a DeMuth Park near the new sanitary plant site in the Veterans Tract."

THE DISCUSSION on the golf course led Councilman George Beebe, Jr., into a lengthy criticism of Councilwoman Mary Carlin's stand against the "loaning of funds" to the golf course project.

"You have gotten a lot of publicity for yourself and the golf course," said Beebe to Mrs. Carlin, "and everybody now knows how you stand. Now it is your job to do all you can to improve the golf course and help us. That's your job as a councilwoman."

MRS. CARLIN answered that she had no intention of backing the council in its borrowing of monies from city funds to support the golf course and added, "It's the attitude of all of you that everything is for the golf course."

The council's plea for unity was also directed at the press, which printed articles concerning the views of one councilman, John Wood, who said that the course would lose at "least $40,000 the first year, because the greens fees are too low."

Vice Mayor Ted McKinney told reporters, "You should help us make a success of every endeavor we go into."

'WHAOO' YELLS BING AS KATHY DELIVERS 6-POUND DAUGHTER

LOS ANGELES UPI — Crooner Bing Crosby, father of five sons, let out a joyful "whaoo" Monday night at Queen of Angels Hospital when his wife, actress Kathy Grant, gave birth to their first daughter.

"You could hear him the length of the corridor," said an attendant. "And the corridor is about two blocks long."

The 55-year-old honorary mayor of Palm Desert took his 24-year-old wife to the hospital at 3:34 p. m. Monday. Two hours later she gave birth to a 6-pound 15-ounce girl.

The couple named the child Mary Frances. They have one other child, Harry Lillis Crosby III, born at the same hospital Aug. 8, 1958. Crosby's four grown sons were by his marriage to his first wife, the late Dixie Lee.

A hospital spokesman said the famed crooner arrived at the hospital in typically casual attire.

Enrollment Mark Set by Village School Students

Palm Springs schools chalked up a new enrollment record for opening day yesterday as 3,193 youngsters paraded back into their classrooms.

Yesterday's attendance cracked last year's opening day enrollment mark of 2,857 by 336 students.

BUT HIGH AS IT is enrollment for the beginning of the 1959-60 school year is still well below the predicted peak enrollment of 3,805 pupils for the year, according to school officials.

Last year's peak figure, traditionally registered in February or March of the school year, was 3,363. But school officials expect to hit this figure by time most late arrivals are in their classrooms at the end of the week.

HEAVY ENROLLMENT at two Palm Springs elementary schools caused a shift in pupils to a school outside their district to compensate for overcrowding that would have probably caused double sessions.

School's In Session

Safety Council Advises Caution

Palm Springs Safety Council directors today again cautioned motorists to exercise extra caution — especially where children are concerned — now that school is back in session.

Safety Council Vice President Hardin Hart particularly directed a plea for extreme care at parents who drive with youngsters in the car.

IN KEEPING WITH the council's campaign for driving safety, Hart offered several suggestions aimed at guarding the safety of children in and around automobiles.

—BEFORE you start to move the car, make sure no children are playing near the wheels or in the driveway. It's a good idea to walk around the car before starting off.

Committee Compromise Wins Okeh

Bill Adopted Affects Only Agua Calientes

Exclusive to The Desert Sun
WASHINGTON, D. C. — Weary Congressmen pressing for adjournment early this morning snapped a Senate bottleneck to push through a final bill authorizing 99-year leases for lands on the Agua Caliente Indian Reservation in Palm Springs.

Congressman D. S. Saund reported that House members erased a possibly lengthy delay in approval of the lease bill by winning Senate agreement to chop two additional tribes from the measure.

THE BILL, FOSTERED by Congressman Saund to bolster development of the resort community, was in the hands of President Eisenhower today, ready for signing into law.

Saund announced that the bill had cleared both the Senate and House shortly before Congress adjourned this morning.

He said he spent most of yesterday on the Senate side of Capitol Hill to clear a bottleneck that developed when the Senate added the Seminole Tribe of Florida and the Navajo Reservations to the lease bill it approved Sept. 9.

THIS SENATE action sent the bill back to the House and forced the formation of a Senate-House conference committee.

But, Saund reported, House members of the committee refused to accept the tribes added by the Senate, principally because House committee hearings on the lease measure had not involved the additional tribes.

SAUND SAID the bottleneck which may have caused a lengthy delay in final approval of the bill was shattered late in the final stages of the Congressional session when Senate conferees agreed to withdraw the Navajo and Seminole tribes from the measure.

Dear Abby...

...by Abigail VanBuren

DEAR ABBY: I have been married almost twenty years to a man who was married before. His first wife died about 30 years ago. Next month my husband would have been married to his first wife fifty years if she had lived. But she didn't live, you understand. She died.

My husband wants us to celebrate his 50th wedding anniversary. I told him it was not proper as we have been married to each other for only 20 years. He said that 50 years of married life was 30 years of married life and it didn't matter who he started out with. He was finishing up with me. How can I stop him from making a fool of himself? We've been quarreling about this all month.

DEAR ABBY: I am not "confused" . . . your HUSBAND is "confused." A wedding anniversary marks the number of years people have been married.

to EACH OTHER. If you can't convince your husband of this fact, perhaps your clergyman can. Celebrate your 20th. The anniversary may not be golden — but your silence will be.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I are both 13. Lots of people think we are too young to talk about sex. Others think it isn't proper for a boy and girl to discuss sex at all. But, Abby, we feel it is a big problem for lots of teenagers and it should be discussed together. Please give us your opinion: Are we right or wrong? R or W.

DEAR R. or W.: A discussion of "sex" can be wholesome, illuminating and constructive only when an "authority" contributes to it. Two 13-year-olds cannot learn much in a discussion of this kind. When questions arise, ask an experienced adult (perhaps a parent or teacher) to guide the discussion and answer questions. Then you'll be sure the information is correct. There is nothing wrong with teenagers discussing sex in the presence of an enlightened adult.

THE PHILIP NORTONS of Palm Springs, are shown aboard the SS Matsonia with Captain Charles C. Wright on the left. En route to Hawaii, the Matsonia sighted a four-masted schooner, graceful as a bird, with all canvas spread. Captain Wright said that in his whole lifetime at sea he had never before seen a four-masted schooner. (Matsonia Photo).

Everything Happens to Them

Philip and Lalita Norton of 1342 South Palm Canyon Drive, got to Hawaii all right . . . but they did it the hard way.

Originally they had planned to go back to Wyoming this summer, but doctors advised against it because of the high altitude . . . so they made a reservation for New Zealand. Complications arose and they missed that boat completely.

They left Palm Springs July 13, not sure of anything except that they had a cabin out of San Francisco on the 29th. With the aid of Ralph Chandler (vice president and general manager of the Matson Lines) they secured an outside upper deck cabin on the SS Matsonia out of San Pedro on July 17. Friends were there to wish them bon voyage, but the Nortons arrived just in time to escort their friends to the gangplank. Fortunately Phil Jr. had been there to act as host.

Captain Charles C. Wright of the SS Matsonia was very gracious about the entire affair but when he invited Phil and Lalita to his deck to see a four-masted schooner which was being passed he took occasion also to very seriously request them to decide a little earlier as to their desires for their return trip. They promised with the statement that it would be easier to get away from the Hawaiian Islands than to get to them. They were returning after forty years, one month and twenty days but would leave them in less than three months.

Captain Wright stated that in a whole lifetime at sea this was the first four-masted schooner he had ever seen. He turned his ship so that they could see it. All canvas was spread and it was as graceful as a bird.

The Nortons will leave Kailua-Kona on September 24 for a tour of places they were turned away from by Hurricane Dot. They sail for home from Honolulu on the SS Lurline on October 8.

Back in School

Georgia and Maralee Morris, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George Morris of 1048 South Calle Marcus, have returned to Palm Springs High School where Georgia is in her junior year and Maralee is a senior. The two girls spent two weeks of their summer vacation in Honolulu at the Wai-kiki Surf.

Old Rocks Lend Hawaiian Decor

By ROSE McKEE

The new state of Hawaii is taking a new look at its old rocks—and finding cash in them.

Mrs. Daniel K. Inouye, wife of the 50th state's first Congressman, said that rocks are becoming popular garden decorations and they are not exactly inexpensive. She said it is not unusual for a person to pay $10 for a particular rock.

Nurseries handle the rocks and gardeners vie with one another in finding artistic ones, she explained. Most people favor the blackish lava rock. Those of this variety that are moss-covered are the most prized of all.

The garden rocks vary in size from near coffee-table to near sofa proportions, and their selection is a matter to which buyers give time and study.

"People go out to the nurseries and sit and study the rocks," Mrs. Inouye explained. "A salesman is apt to make such comments as, 'Now don't you think that rock has real character?'"

She told the National Association of Home Builders that Hawaiian gardens, like the houses, tend increasingly to combine Oriental and Occidental features.

Japanese stone lanterns are used more and more in Honolulu gardens, for instance, while shoji, Japanese sliding doors, are a feature of many of the new homes. She said the shoji are used frequently as room dividers.

Both the Inouyes are of Japanese ancestry but neither has been to Japan. THE Congressman, who lost an arm in World War II while serving with Hawaii's famed 442d Infantry regiment, won the Distinguished Service Cross and 14 other citations.

Mrs. Inouye, a chic, attractive woman with a ready smile, has given up a University of Hawaii teaching job so that she can be in Washington with her husband when Congress is in session.

She said that coming from such a distance they will have to buy furniture and other household effects for their living quarters in Washington rather than ship things they already have.

That, she indicated, will not be as difficult as another problem stemming from the fact they are from Hawaii. She explained that they will have to leave their two dogs, toy fox terriers, in Honolulu otherwise the dogs on return to the islands, would have to spend four months in quarantine — and that, the Inouyes have decided, is too long a time. The unusually long quarantine requirement, she said, is a protection against introduction of rabies in the islands and she can understand it.

In Honolulu, the Inouyes have a big lot and a ranch-type, rambling house on land that until seven years ago was a chicken farm. Their garden has several decorative rocks which they chose with considerable care.

you just bump your head on the glass front ... but there's another way of finding out ... Saturday found us heading for the NBC studios in Burbank ... where the Bob Hope show for October 8 was in dress rehearsal ... Guest stars are Natalie Wood ... Dean Martin ... and the Four Crosbys ... and I felt like a member of the cast when we all lined up on stage for a picture ... But Hope ... always wisecracking ... said we looked "like a Halloween party at Jan Kings" ...

I've seen the old silent movie sets in production ... at all the major studios ... with Cecil De-Mille megaphoning directions ... Richard Dix powdering his handsome face before going in front of the camera ... Will Rogers working out with his easy swinging lariat ... Hedda Hopper in a glamorous evening gown in a diningroom scene where the prop man was worrying over the roses that kept wilting down in the heat from the lights ...

And I've gone to radio broadcasts ... "The Thin Man" in Radio City ... the Bing Crosby and Jack Benny broadcasts from Palm Springs ... and a Hope broadcast from the stage of the Banning theatre many years ago ... but this was my first TV show ... I found it much more entertaining than the part you will be seeing on your television screens on October 8 ...

the director watches five monitor screens and directs what's going on on the stage below ... Peeking in at wardrobe ... and spotted the scrawny furpiece that has a comedy role in the show ... and walked through the big studios and saw some of the sets ... that are all set up and ready to push into place on the stages ...

Addenda: Jan King (Hope's industrious script secretary) was all over the place quietly getting things done ... Saw Abe and Muriel Lipsey in the audience ... Muriel had Hedy LaMar's two daughters with her ... watching their first television show ...

Big Surprise: We were crossing the street from NBC ... when a car honked at us ... and it was Maxine and Joel Stone and their daughter Sally ... who are just back from a trip to Honolulu and the Orient ...

Elsa and Bill Bassichis write from London ... where they are staying at The Dorchester ... that they are having a wonderful time ... and expect to see all their Palm Springs friends this winter ... as usual ... Bill Alexander and the Chi Chi Orchestra (augmented to 18 pieces) are currently playing ... at the Los Angeles County Fair ...

Theora Wight Returns Home

After an absence of two and a half months, Mrs. John Wight has returned to her trailer home at 3875 East Palm Canyon Drive, as the Wight home on Mesquite is rented to the Bob Bernans of Los Angeles. Most of her summer was spent around Yellowstone Park and in Billings, Montana, where they have business interests. Mrs. Wight returned ahead of her husband, who is detained by business, because she is associated with the Western Directory here in Palm Springs.

Buy Pianos

When buying a piano, tone is most important, according to the American Music Conference. If you have a normal ear for music you can judge tone. What sounds best to you is what counts. Make sure the quality of the tone is the same throughout the keyboard by playing every note yourself.

Granddaughter Christened on Friday

The C. Ronald Ellises returned home from an 11,000 mile, trans-continental motor trip just in time to attend the christening of their eight-and-a-half month old granddaughter Elizabeth Ann Bond, daughter of the Allan George Bonds. The little girl's mother is the former Ann Ellis.

Only the immediate family, including the other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Bond, and older brother four-year-old Johnny Bond, were present at St. Paul's Friday evening, when the baby was christened with Fr. Frederick Barnhill officiating.

The junior Bonds and their two youngsters have returned to Stockton where they are living while Allan attends the College of the Pacific.

Mrs. Bleming To Visit at Cottey College

Mrs. Mary B. Bleming, 1946 Navajo Drive, will visit Cottey College, Nevada, Missouri, September 27, with the 125-member California delegation enroute to Milwaukee where they will attend the Supreme Chapter convention of the P.E.O. Sisterhood, September 28-October 1.

Juniors Planning Their First Christmas Bazaar

Plans for their first big Christmas Bazaar, to be held in the Palm Springs Playhouse on December 4, occupied the attention of members of the Palm Springs Junior Women's Club when they met at the Bedford Drive home of Jo Burkett.

Committee chairmen, who are already at work, are: Grace Sormoen, aprons; Pat Wahlberg, decorated bottles; Genevieve Watson, centerpieces; Evelyn Schilling, Christmas stockings; Junene Johnson, mail box covers and candles; Corrine Anderson, children's table; Mary Ann Koehler, flowers and dolls; Inga Buckheim, gift boxes; Jayne Thomas, jewelry and toys.

Also discussed were plans for an initiation of new members, to be held sometime in October. The candlelight ceremony will be for those who have fulfilled the membership requirements prior to the initiation.

Mrs. Koehler, Club president, introduced members who will be serving as district chairmen this year and who with other members will be attending the first district meeting at Soboba Hot Springs on September 19. Those presented were: Jayne Thomas, press and historian; Mary Ann Koehler, auditor; Syd Watson, mental health; Pat Wahlberg, music.

Among those attending the meeting and enjoying the cookies and coffee served by the hostess and Mrs. Inga Buckheim and Mrs. Dorothy Cromer were: Senior and Junior coordinators, Mrs. Dorothy Sewenck and Mrs. Dorothy Burgin. Also guests for the evening: Mrs. Terry Neal, Mrs. Rita Thompson, Mrs. Jo Ann Lehfeldt, Mrs. Corrine Anderson, Mrs. Carol Leoncio, Mrs. Barbara Dille and Mrs. Alby Keeney.

To Observe Constitution Week Sept. 17-23

From September 17 to 23, the Nation is observing the 172nd anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States of America, based on the principle that the people are the power in the government, the Constitution was signed on September 17, 1787. Constitution Week is sponsored throughout the country by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

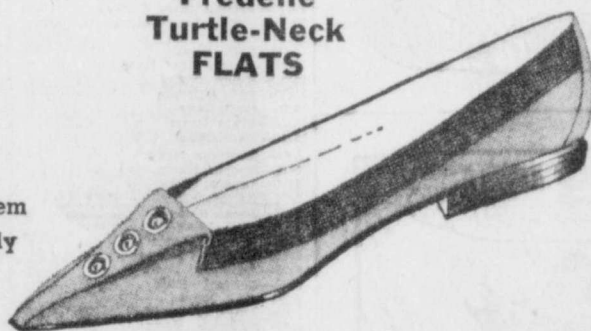

In calling attention to the observance of Constitution Week, Mrs. William Froom, regent of Cahulla Chapter of Palm Springs, said that the Constitution has grown in reverence throughout the years as it holds secure the rights of the people in the storms of war and depression.

John H. Ballard, then and now president of the Bulova Watch Co., conceived the idea of putting commercials into radio station breaks. That was in 1926.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW

Dodgers Bow to Buhl and Drop to Third in NL Race

Braves in 2nd Spot By Game

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International
Milwaukee is making a stretch run—and it's a sizzler—so Bill Rigney may be right when he says "it's liable to be another one of those photo finishes."
The Braves apparently have no intention of taking down the flag, symbolic of the National League championship, that has flown over County Stadium the past two years.
They won their eighth game in the last nine and climbed within a game of Rigney's pace, setting Giants by defeating the Los Angeles Dodgers, 4-1, Monday night after Cincinnati beat San Francisco, 4-1, in the only other N.L. scheduled contest.

BOB BUHL, a Dodger - killer from way back, licked them for the fifth time in six decisions this year even though he needed Don McMahon's help in the ninth. Buhl hurled a three-hitter for his 13th win of the season and he now owns a 20-8 lifetime record over the Dodgers.

Dutch Dotterer, Cincinnati's second-string catcher, proved San Francisco's undoing. Dotterer singled runs across in the fourth and sixth innings after taking over for Ed Bailey in the second inning. Johnny Antonelli failed in his second attempt to nail down his 20th victory.

IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE race, the White Sox lead was cut to 4½ games when they dropped a 9-3 decision to the Red Sox while the Indians beat the Yankees, 8-5. Baltimore topped Kansas City, 9-4, and Washington beat Detroit, 5-0.

The Red Sox routed Dick Donovan with a six-run rally in the sixth inning that kept the White Sox' pennant clinching "magic number" at six. Boston overcame a 2-0 deficit during the big sixth with a rally comprised of five walks and four singles, including one by pinch-hitter Ted Williams.

Cleveland clinched second place and kept its faint pennant hopes alive with its victory over New York. Cal McLish scored his 18th triumph although the Yankees routed him with a too-little, too-late five-run rally in the ninth.

Bob Niekamp batted in four runs with his 21st homer and a single as the Orioles climbed within a game of fourth place by beating the Athletics.

Tex Clevenger, a former reliever promoted to a starter, limited the Tigers to four singles in gaining his eighth victory for the Senators. Big Jim Lemon slugged his 32nd homer.

Chavez Stadium Work Scheduled

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ground will be broken Thursday for the Los Angeles Dodgers' future baseball stadium in Chavez Ravine.
"This is an occasion which we've awaited some time," said Dodger owner Walter O'Malley.

Tired All-Indian Team Battered By CVSL 18-0

Their strenuous campaign in the All-Indian baseball tournament in Arizona apparently took too much out of the Morongo team which finished second and they didn't have the zip when they met the Coachella Valley Savings and Loan team at the Polo Grounds Sunday.

The local team made a route of it when they won 18 to 0 behind the four hit pitching of Jerry Delmont and Heriske.

Nine big errors by the visitors accounted for the 18 runs.

Hank Aguilar and Gene NORTE hurtled for the visitors and Siva and C. Segundo caught. LeRoy Segundo, slated to pitch for the All Indian team was unable to be present.

The visitors were mostly youngsters and the strain of their tournament drive in which they won a handsome trophy took too much out of them. They plan to come back to meet the CVSL team again after a much-needed rest.

Sunday's score: R H E
Morongo 0 0 0
Palm Springs 18 17
Aguilar, Norte and Siva. Segundo; Delmont, Heriske and Reinsehn.

Indians Open Grid Play Sept. 25th

With their first football game of the 1959 season just ten days away, Palm Springs High School Indians, got down to intensive work this week as Coach Clare Ballagh continued drilling an inexperienced and small squad for the 1959 campaign.

The Indians lost 16 men from the squad which finished third in the now defunct Riverside County League last year. Included were such stars as Joe Lewis, Cleo James, LeRoy Segundo, David Sing and Gary Easton. All were highly rated in the old RCL.

THIS YEAR the Tribe plays in a new league, the Desert League, which takes in Banning and Coachella Valley of the old RCL plus Yucaipa. Twenty-nine Palms and Indio high as new members.

The other members of the former RCL, Hemet, Beaumont, Perris, Elsinore and San Jacinto are in a new loop with Fallbrook.

The Indians meet three of their former rivals, Hemet, San Jacinto and Perris in practice games this year.

FIRST GAME on the Indians schedule is against Calexico High on the local gridiron on September 25.

Coach Ballagh wasn't too far down in the mouth, however, despite the small squad and the loss of veterans.

"If we do not run into too many injuries and loss of personnel, we'll do all right, I think."
"We started with less than two full teams but with the opening of school this week, we expect about 30 boys out to try for the team by the end of the week."

IN KEEPING with his program to cut injuries to a minimum Ballagh has issued strict training rules.

If the boys are fit physically, they'll avoid the bumps that go with lack of training, he said.

After their opener against Calexico a week from Friday night here, the Tribe's schedule is:

October 2—Perris here.
October 9—San Jacinto here.
October 16—At Hemet.
October 23—At Indio.
October 30—Yucaipa here.
November 6—Banning here.
November 13—At Coachella Valley.
November 20—Twenty-nine Palms here.

Purdue and UCLA Picked As Bowl Foes

Trojans Favored But Not Eligible For Jan. 1 Classic

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Football fans who have trouble getting Rose Bowl tickets on New Year's Day can sneak in a look at the favorites for the mid-winter classic when UCLA meets Purdue here Friday night.

At least that's the opinion of Southern California Football Writers who today were recorded as picking the Bruins and the Boiler-makers to meet in the Rose Bowl.

The writers at their meeting Monday named University of Southern California by a 10-1 margin as the top team on the Pacific Coast but the Trojans are ineligible for the Rose Bowl and so UCLA was picked to be the West's team against their season-opening opponents.

In balloting on the pro football season, the Baltimore Colts were picked to repeat in the Western Division while the Cleveland Browns were chosen to top the Eastern Division with the Los Angeles Rams and the New York Giants their leading contenders.

In the college rankings, California was named as the third strongest team behind UCLA in the new Athletic Association of Western Universities with Washington fourth and Stanford fifth.

Dodgers Taking Series Orders

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers decided late Monday to accept mail orders for tickets to the World Series.

That was after the National League - leading San Francisco Giants lost in the afternoon to move the Dodgers and Milwaukee - tied for second place - to within 1½ games of the Giants.

Monday night, the Dodgers lost to Milwaukee, 4-1, and were dropped to third place, two games behind the Giants.

All He's Got to Do is Lay Wood on Ball to Win $500

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — TV viewers will see Friday night what happens when a novice baseball player tries to get a hit off the Los Angeles Dodgers' Sandy Koufax with a top prize of $10,000 possible.

If John Russell, a mathematics teacher from the San Fernando Valley, hits a homer off strikeout artist Koufax — with the entire Dodger team backing Koufax up—he gets $10,000. A triple is good for $5,000, a double will bring $2,500 and a single $1,000. If Russell lays a bat on the ball, he'll get $500. He gets the conventional three strikes.

The showdown will be seen on the Art Linkletter "People Are Funny" show.

D'AMATO OUSTED IN BOXING QUIZ

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fight promoter Vincent J. Veleva will have his big chance to deny underworld connections today before the New York state Athletic Commission, which suspended indefinitely fight manager Gus D'Amato.

Veleva and an unidentified representative of the district attorney's office were scheduled to testify at today's resumption of the commission's open hearing into activities surrounding the Johnson-Patterson fight promotion.

D'Amato, manager of former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, was suspended Monday for failure to appear at the hearing's first session. The commission had ordered his appearance in a registered letter sent him on Sept. 2, Chairman Melvin L. Krulwich announced.

VELELLA, HARLEM politician, was described as a "front man" for Anthony (Fat Tony) Salerno, missing Harlem mobster, during Monday's four-hour testimony by ex-promoter Bill Rosensohn.

Young Rosensohn was president of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc., when he promoted the June 25 fight at Yankee Stadium, where Ingemar Johansson of Sweden took the heavyweight title from Patterson on a third-round knockout.

Rosensohn's testimony described how he became so financially enmeshed among Salerno, Veleva, D'Amato, gambler Gilbert Beckley and Charley Black, a D'Amato crony, that he ultimately lost not only two-thirds of the stock in his own organization but had to give up all rights to any share in TV, radio and movie receipts from the June fight—and future fights.

Defending Champ Charley Coe Tops Play on First Day

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — (UPI) — Walker Cuppers Deane Beman, Billy Joe Patton and Dr. Frank Taylor today join the quest of the National Amateur golf championship which Charlie Coe shows no sign of readiness to relinquish.

If any of his 199 rivals in this year's tournament had any ideas about beating Coe out of his third amateur crown, he dispelled that with a masterful opening-round 7 and 6 victory over young Bob Meiering of Roswell, N.M., Monday.

THE 35-YEAR-OLD Oklahoma oil broker and captain of the U.S. Walker Cup team did not three-putt a single green and did not stray over par until he had piled up a commanding lead by winning seven of the first eight holes from 21-year-old Meiering.

"I played better than I expected," commented Coe, who was pitted against James Mallory of Spokane, Wash., in today's second round. "The first match is always the hardest for me."

JOHNNY DAWSON of Eldorado Country Club was a first round winner, defeating John Garriy of Kansas City on the 19th hole.

Beman, the 21-year-old British Amateur champion, Patton and Taylor, all of whom drew first round byes, get their chance today to try their luck on the mile-high Broadmoor Club layout with its difficult-to-read hilly greens.

Berman met Dee Repligie of Oklahoma City in today's second round; the colorful Patton played Ken Finke of Tucson, Ariz., and Taylor was paired against Thomas Jamison Jr., of Oakmont, Pa.

COE HAS PLAYED "50 or 60 rounds" at Broadmoor during the past 10 years. Many off his rivals, particularly Harvie Ward of San Francisco, played the course for the first time Monday — and showed it.

Ward, the 33-year-old Carolinian who like Coe is shooting for his third National Amateur crown, battled for 17 holes with 20-year-old Jim Grant of Atlanta before winning 2 and 1.

DIETZEL TELLS IMPORTANCE OF GRID GAME

Football Best Training for Boys

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the second dispatch written exclusively for United Press International by Paul F. Dietzel, head football coach at Louisiana State, the nation's No. 1 college football team in 1958. Dietzel answers the question of why play football in the following.

By PAUL F. DIETZEL
Written for UPI

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Football is prevalent in other areas than the ones discussed in Friday's dispatch.

It presents itself with tremendous impact in another area. A wholesome well rounded athletic program, properly handled, is one of the finest rallying points for any organization. It brings everyone involved together. It creates a bond with which you can closely integrate the whole organization.

One of the finest examples of this was told by one of the really fine football coaches in America today. He was relating one of his former coaching experiences. He had taken the job in an orphanage to organize its athletic program. After a few years, he had built the program to the point that they were winning just about every time they walked out on the field.

THIS WAS A GROUP of youngsters, who because they had no parents, had had very little to center their interests upon. These youngsters actually had had nothing in which to create any amount of pride. When they began to win, they then had something that they could be proud of. It changed the attitude of "the home." Before they had been subservient and withdrawn. Now they became aware of their letter jackets and proud of the fact that they "belonged" to this orphanage. It actually gave them a motive in life. Please do not think that this is an attempt to white-wash the game of football or to say that the game has no faults. This is not true. There is nothing that any of us can ever become involved with which is without fault. The overall impact of the sport of football, however, is so great that the small amount of malpractice which might exist in some remote area really must be considered insignificant.

THERE ARE MANY ways to make a living easier than coaching a football team. The coaching of football is not particularly a lucrative field monetarily. People do not become coaches of football because they can think of no other way to make a living.

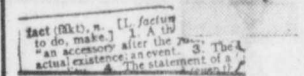

Many of us feel that we would not be happy doing anything else. It is very obvious that for the same amount of energy expended a living could be more easily acquired in other fields. If that is the case, and I think it is, then most of the men are associated with it because they love the game and because they enjoy working with young men. For those reasons, I feel that football is in good hands.

Each year it becomes a little more difficult to retain the attention of the young person in our high schools and colleges. There are a greater variety of things vying for his attentions than at any time before in the history of education.

YOUNG, STRAIGHT - THINKING people are faced with a very difficult task of trying to decide what is really right and what is wrong. They are also faced with the problem of trying to decide whether "paying the price" for anything is really worthwhile. Adults generally present poor examples. Perhaps they may get the feeling that the most important thing is to get by with doing just as little as possible rather than having to work for what they receive. In other words, I believe that the teen-age youth of today has a tremendously difficult time with that constant tug of war taking place with his moral fiber and sense of values. His sense of values are bound to take a thorough testing. Football does a better job of keeping a boy's feet on the ground than any other media in our present day culture.

The Thousand Palms club, beginning its second season since organization, is active already in party work locally and on the county and state level. Its representatives at the state meeting of the party some time ago were Miss Eve Finson and Mrs. John Shaughnessy.

ACTIVE IN THE organization of the club, Miss Finson serves as its delegate at large and Mr. Shaughnessy as its first president. Other officers for this year include: Harland Mangold, vice president; Mrs. Chester Williams, treasurer. The vacant chair of secretary, left by the death of Mrs. Breden, has not yet been filled.

Germans Fete Adenauer On Anniversary

New President Sworn
On Chancellor's
10th Anniversary

BONN — UPI — Konrad Adenauer celebrated his 10th anniversary as West German chancellor today by watching the inauguration of Heinrich Luebke — his personal choice — as the nation's second president.

Luebke was sworn in at a joint session of Parliament attended by foreign diplomats and distinguished visitors to the West German capital. He actually had been president since Saturday midnight, but the formal inauguration was postponed to coincide with Adenauer's anniversary in office.

SPEAKERS AT THE ceremony included Luebke, outgoing President Theodor Heuss and the heads of the two houses of Parliament. Adenauer dropped plans to speak when the Socialist opposition demanded equal time.

For West Germany's "grand old man," the inauguration was the latest development of a career as chief of government which he began at an age when most men are retired.

ADENAUER WAS 73 on that day in 1949 when he himself cast the vote that made him the head man of West Germany's first government. Harry Truman was president, the late Josef Stalin was still undisputed master of Russia, and Clement (now Earl) Attlee headed Britain's labor government.

It took 202 votes to assure Adenauer's election as chancellor, and he received just that number.

HERB SAMSON, VICE PRESIDENT and manager of the new Ramon Road Branch of Security First National Bank, stops Joan Ewing and Maxine Page from entering the parking lot of the new $450,000 branch. Samson tells the girls the official opening date is September 19, from 4 to 7 p. m.

SECURITY STARTS 'MOVE-IN'

The opening date of Security First National Bank's new Ramon Road Branch showed evidence of its rapid approach when staff members began moving in yesterday.

Herb Samson, vice president and branch manager of the bank's new offices said the new staff and 18 members would be moving in throughout the remainder of the week. Plans call for the arrangement of the branch banking facilities and an orientation program for all personnel, Samson added.

"DUE TO THE ENTIRELY new designs of the banking facilities, never used in any bank before and designed for the Palm Springs Ramon Road Branch specifically, staff members will spend the week becoming familiar with special features and functions of the new facilities," he said.

Included among the branch's exclusive features are stand-up sit-down check desks and a new teller line.

BESIDES PREPARING for the branch's first day of business on Sept. 21, the staff will be completing the final preparations for the grand opening to be held on Sept. 19, highlight of which will be the first public showing of Palm Springs' history represented through sculpture by the internationally known Lawrence Tenney Stevens.

Living in the Desert

Every week is "home week" in Palm Springs where some of the nation's most beautifully-appointed houses grace the desert and mountain landscape. Here are some revealing photographs of what Villagers like to call "living in the desert." There are more pictures and a wide variety of stories in this special section that detail the fantastic growth in homes in this area.

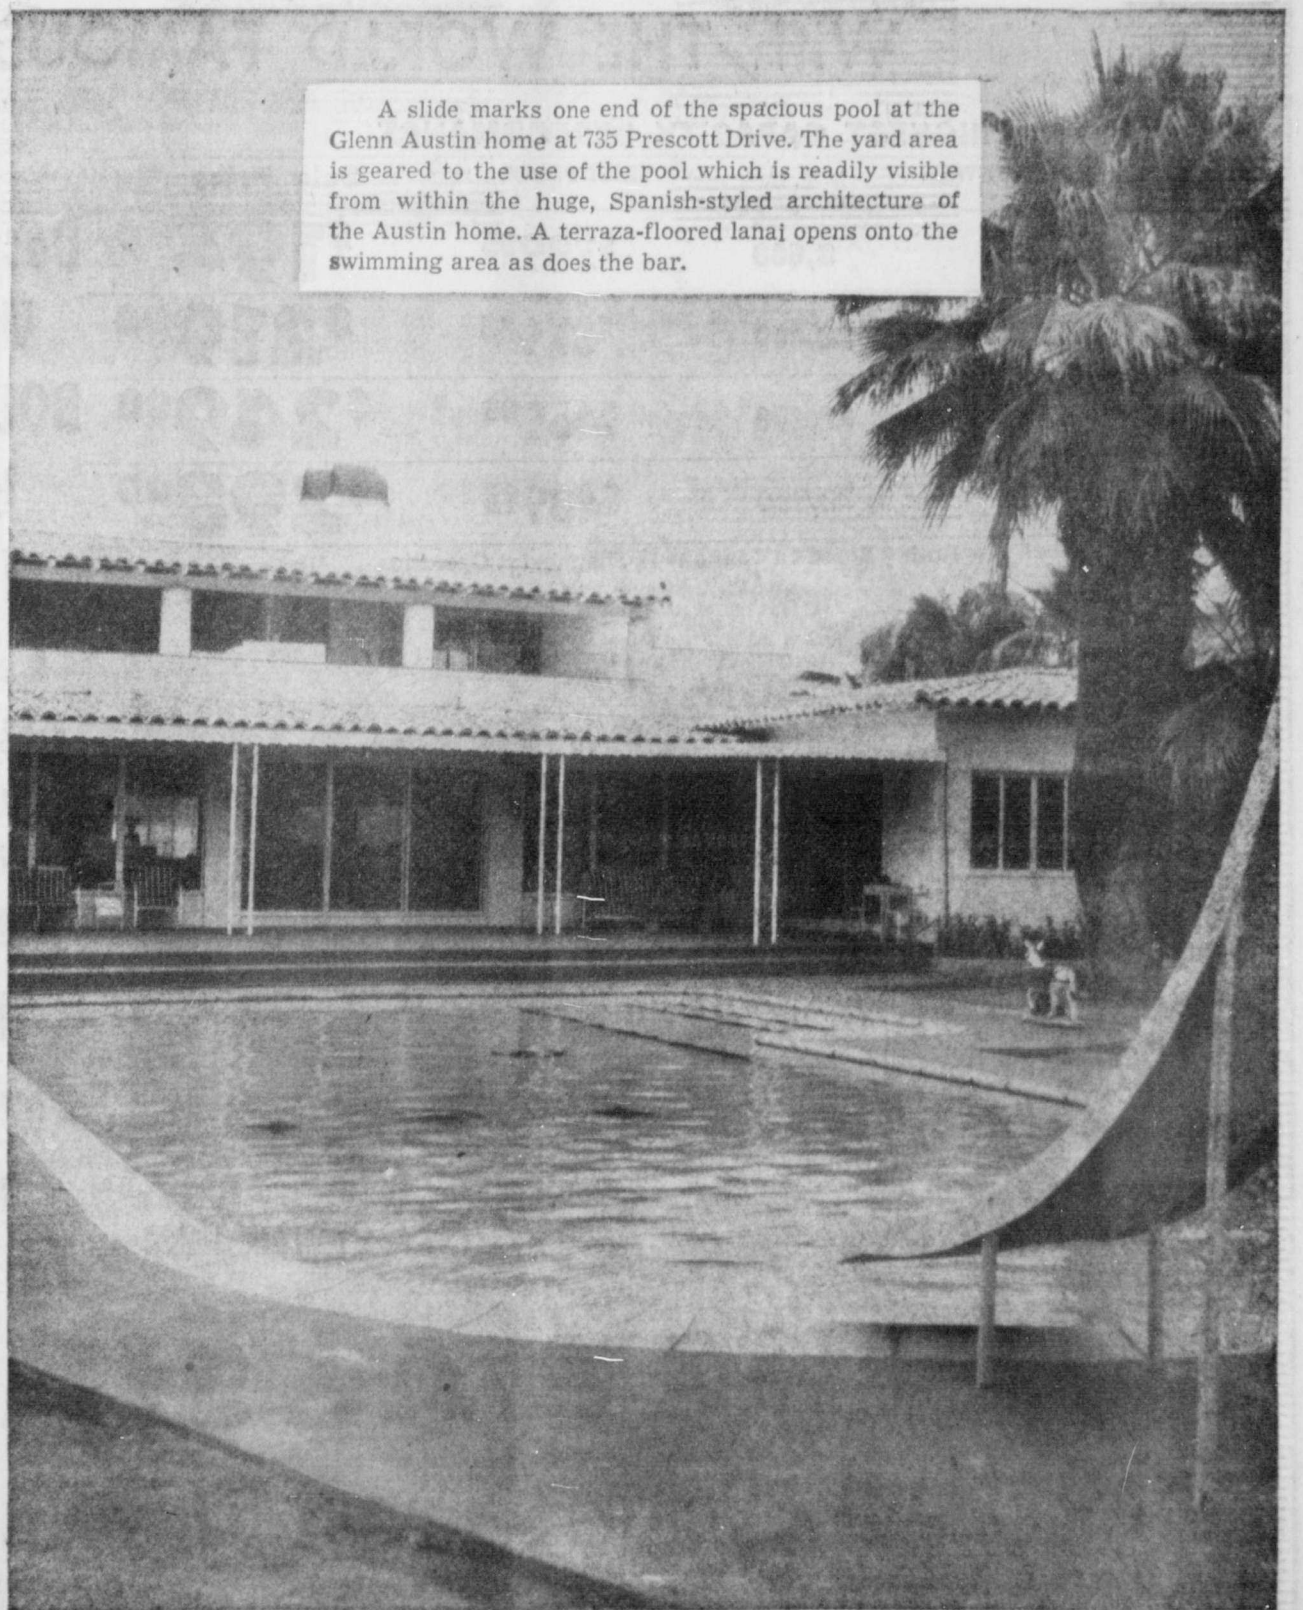

Village architect Stewart Williams mapped his own home at 1250 Paseo El Mirador in such a manner as to bring the outdoors into the living area and send the living area into his outdoor recreation area. Williams had a pebbled concrete wall poured on the site, tilted up and placed to create the flow of outdoors to indoors. The effect is a continuous garden that starts outdoors and runs through the living area of the home. The dining area is also a portion of the "garden" area.

Los Angeles investment broker Robert A. Leaver selected the slope of the mountain that shields Palm Springs on the west as the site for his family's winter residence. Designed by Hugh Kaptur, the home relies on Bethlehem steel to keep and give it a substantial hold on the mountainside. Kenneth Iwata mapped the structural design.

Modern motif of the Warshauer home at 271 Stevens Road is carried out in swimming-recreation area outside the house. Pool area is surrounded by canvas lounges and the tropical landscaping blends with the almost Polynesian feel of the yard area.

A slide marks one end of the spacious pool at the Glenn Austin home at 735 Prescott Drive. The yard area is geared to the use of the pool which is readily visible from within the huge, Spanish-styled architecture of the Austin home. A terraza-floored lanai opens onto the swimming area as does the bar.

Mosaic Lessons Offered

Technique Taught By Young

Carolyn Seemann acquired new craft techniques this summer while studying with Joseph Young, world renowned mosaicist who taught at the Idyllwild Arts Foundation College Workshop and today announced plans for limited beginners and advanced lessons in mosaics for the desert area through the Edward Canby Studio.

Young is famous for his mosaic murals in the main lobby of the Los Angeles Police Building, the Temple Emanuel in Beverly Hills, and for other noted mosaic works.

MOSAIC, AN expression of art developed centuries ago, today is being revived and is popular not only for commercial and professional purposes, but also for hobbyists for home decoration, Mrs. Seemann said.

Beginners in mosaics can easily create many unusual pieces in vivid and vibrant color combinations to use as gifts or for accents and conversational pieces in their homes, she continued.

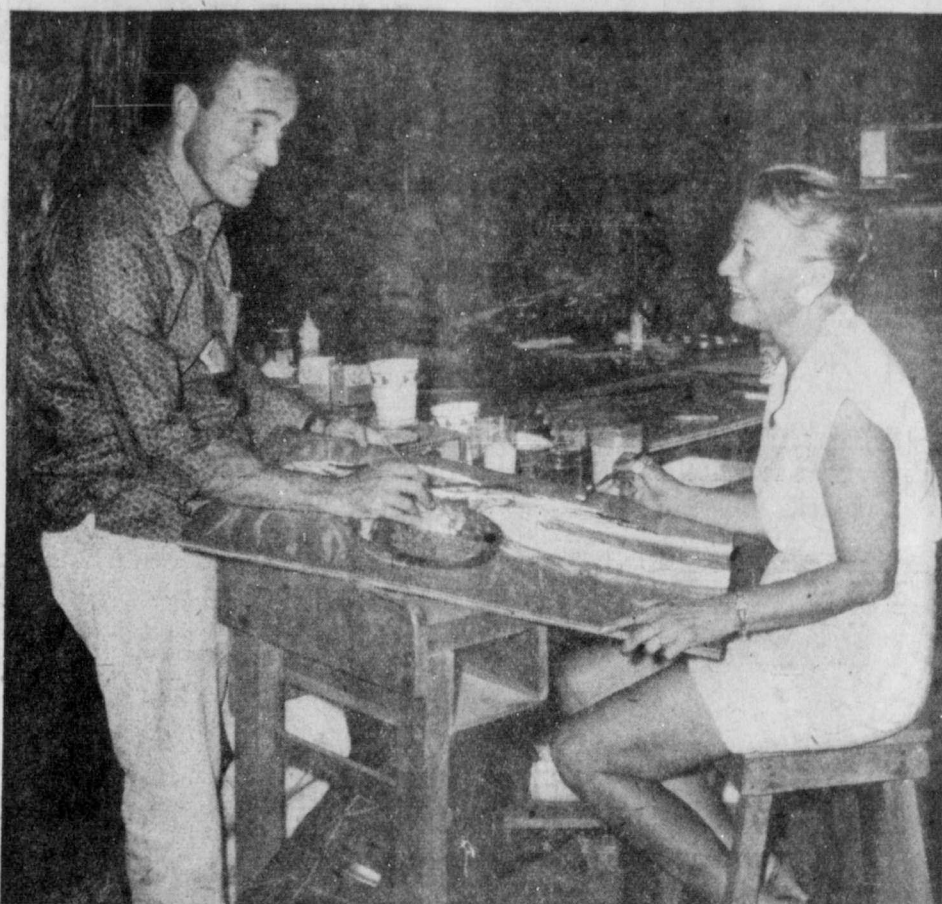

LAMP BASES, table tops, plates or ash trays, door knobs and door pulls, clock faces, jewelry boxes, wall hangings, candleholders, planters and other decorative items are possible in this art medium. Many household items lend themselves to the application of mosaic tile with an individual touch of creativity and imagination, Mrs. Seemann concluded.

CALECTRIC OFFERS OPEN HOUSE PLAN DURING HOME WEEK

Building contractors in the California Electric Power Company's resort service area will observe National Home Week, Sept. 12 through 20, with an open house program for their electric "Medallion Homes."

Calectric officials said the local program is part of a nation-wide effort timed to coincide with a 30-page Medallion Home advertisement section in the Sept. 14 issue of Life Magazine and similar items in local media.

Area residents who visit these homes are also eligible to enter a $100,000 Medallion Home contest which features a $20,000 home as first prize. Further information may be obtained at the local Calectric office.

Electricity, Gas Compete In Southland

Power Supply Contrasts With Rest of Nation

Village households, like their Southern California counterparts, rely almost entirely on two fuels—gas and electricity—contrasting with the rest of the nation, wherein a variety of fuels compete for the home power market.

This fact was pointed up in survey statistics compiled by Commercial Business Service, Inc., following a major house-to-house survey of most of the southern portion of the state.

DONALD BAILEY, an official of the statistical firm, announced the figures in a report which showed that not only did gas and electricity dominate the Southland domestic market, but—at least in respect to major appliances—gas led electricity in all uses except refrigeration. This, too, Bailey's survey emphasized, is a reversal of the nationwide picture.

The survey on which Bailey's report was based was conducted in the summer and fall of 1958, and took tabulating people into each residence in metropolitan Los Angeles, as well as into homes in an area extending from San Clemente in the south to Paso Robles in the north. It included inland areas from El Centro and Brawley to Visalia.

WHILE ON A national basis residents turn variously to gas, electricity, oil and coal to meet the needs of the home, over 99 per cent of southern California home owners use gas and electricity—with gas usage leading the local field statistically—to the exclusion of any other energy sources in operating their major appliances.

Virtually every home in southern California (over 99 per cent of them) was found by the statistical firm to have appliances serving four basic domestic needs: space heating, cooking, water heating, and refrigeration.

A RELATIVE newcomer among major home appliances, the automatic clothes dryer, was found installed in 13 per cent of the southern California residences. Of these clothes dryers, 54 per cent were gas, 46 per cent electric. This appliance, introduced since World War II, was found to have gained in popularity at an accelerating pace.

House Institute Reports

Average Cost of Building New Home Heading Higher

By ELMER C. WALZER

NEW YORK — (AP) — The average cost of building a new home appears to be heading higher.

And this despite some reductions earlier in the year in construction costs and a belief in some quarters that contractors would have to hold the price line to maintain their volume.

THE CURRENT housing letter published by the Housing Institute lists five reasons for expecting moderately higher quotations on private one-family homes:

1. Building material costs are increasing slowly but steadily, and this trend should be maintained in the coming months.

2. Labor costs in the building industry are extremely high and show no signs of leveling off.

3. Land continues to become more expensive.

4. INTEREST RATES continue high, a factor which raises building costs because the contractors have to pay more for credit.

5. There is little overhead in the home builders' field. In this connection the housing letter notes that since builders are under no pressure to maintain operations in the face of narrow profit margins, they will not build homes without adequate incentive.

Over-all building material prices early this year showed a gain of 23 per cent over last year, it was noted.

LABOR COSTS were listed as follows: average hourly earnings among all building contractors, $3.17 an hour; general contractors, $3.94; plumbing and heating $3.39; painting and decorating, $3.20; electrical, $3.66; other related trades, $3.22 an hour.

SILVERMAN IS TOP BOOSTER FOR CLIMATE

William L. Silverman, who with his wife owns the Upholstery Center, is a one-man "Chamber of Commerce" for Palm Springs.

Coming here from Chicago, where he had been in the upholstery business for 30 years, he overcame an attack of arthritis within a few months and opened his business.

Now he and his wife have expanded operations and moved to completely new, modern quarters at 68-170 East Ramon Road.

The letter finds that there is no longer the large amount of land in desirable locations available at reasonable prices as was the case immediately following World War II.

"BUILDERS HAVE either to pay much more than was the case previously, or go farther and farther away from urban areas, if they are going to build in any volume."

HOME ACCIDENTS DEADLY, WARNING

Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home — despite the accident statistics.

The statistics might make you wonder about "home, sweet home."

1. HOME ACCIDENTS kill more children 1-4 years of age than any disease.
2. Home falls take 12,000 lives a year.
3. Home fires and other burns take the lives of 5,300 persons annually.
4. Accidental poisoning in the home claims 1,000 victims a year.

"HOME ACCIDENTS," the National Safety Council reports, "kill 27,000 persons a year, and injure more than four million."

"In view of these facts," the Council said, "you may well be concerned with the safety of your home."

"But when you stop and consider the great number of hours spent in the home, the statistics are more understandable even if the danger is just as real."

HERE ARE SOME danger signals to watch out for in the home:

1. Water or grease on the kitchen floor.
2. An unlighted stair, or toys and boxes piled on stair steps.
3. Oily rags or papers left in a corner of the basement.
4. DULL KNIVES, which are dangerous because they force the user to apply too much pressure.

Highlight Room With Center Of Interest

You enter a well-arranged room and your eyes unconsciously focus on one attractive area, the center of interest.

You enter a poorly-arranged room and your eyes will also be drawn to a center of interest, an unhappy one. It's likely to be a radiator cover, an awkwardly placed chair or the glaring eye of the television set.

How to create pleasing center, or centers, in every room is one problem of the home decorator. Many areas have a natural focal point in an architectural feature,

SANDPIPER SETS WEEKEND OPENING

PALM DESERT — Grand opening of the desert area's newest own-your-own model apartments, the Sandpiper in Palm Desert, has been set for this weekend, with the exciting new Medallion all-electric built-in kitchens part of each unit.

The three new models will open the third unit of the Sandpiper apartments, with only a limited number still available for occupancy this season. Each apartment is situated around the extra large pool, ramada, putting green and shuffleboard court in an island of tropical landscaping.

THE FURNISHED models, as created by Vee Nisley, are coordinated in color and motif to the Medallion kitchens in the newest decorator hues. Each unit includes eating bar, built-in electric range, oven and refrigerator. All units are refrigerated and include two bedrooms and two baths.

Sales Manager Jack Enders explained that many of the units have been purchased during the summer by referral from owners in the first two Sandpiper units. "Some excellent locations are still available, however," Enders said.

THE SANDPIPER apartments sell for $21,500 and include complete maintenance of pool, apartment and landscaping. Complete resort hotel maid and linen service also is offered.

Bogart, Wood Are New Simsarian Associates

24-Hour Service Plan Set

Two well known Villagers, Harry C. Bogart and Joe Wood, have joined the staff of Henry A. Simsarian, Inc., heating, air conditioning and plumbing specialists, it was announced today by President Joe Eicher.

And, at the same time, Eicher announced that 24-hour emergency service is now offered through a 24-hour answering service. Another special Simsarian feature is having factory service men take care of all General Electric equipment and appliances.

BOGART HAS BEEN named the new dispatcher for all departments, and will assist clients with their air conditioning, appliance, heating and plumbing problems.

How to Make Narrow Room Appear Wider

An empty room is a box. Sometimes it's a nice box and sometimes it's pretty ugly.

If the room or box happens to be in our house, it becomes the case for our furniture — and for our living. We have to do with it the best we can.

THE ROOM THAT is too long and narrow is a frequent difficulty. The Home Furnishings Industry Committee passes on these tricks you can use to increase its apparent width.

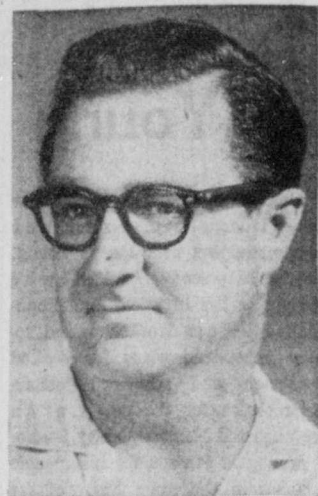

Hang draperies outside the window frame from wall to wall and connect them with a valance. Thin vertical lines of draperies hung in the usual manner would accentuate the narrowness of the wall.

For the same reason you should avoid putting towering pieces of furniture on a narrow wall. (Use them to break up the broad expanses.) Low horizontal lines will make the wall appear wider.

COLOR CAN ALSO help. In a room, warm or dark-colored walls move towards you, and cool or light-colored walls move away. Use white, or with blue and green in their mixture, to push too-close walls apart. Bring the far wall closer with a warm colored paint or wall-paper.

Decorating Tools Are Lines, Balance

Arrangement Of Horizontal, Vertical Needed

A vertical line in a room is like a church steeple. It goes straight up in the air and adds interest.

Too many vertical lines in the room create a restless atmosphere. They force the eye to travel up and down continuously. The result is somewhat like being at the bottom of a canyon or on a street surrounded by skyscrapers.

HORIZONTAL LINES are soothing, but too much emphasis on the horizontal puts you to sleep.

Lines and mass are two of the basic materials of the home decorator. The Home Furnishings Industry Committee points out that the way she handles them will make — or make impossible — the effect she creates.

STRONG LINES should work together. The sofa stands along the wall, or in very large rooms, at right angles to it. Carpet margins parallel the walls.

Use the diagonal line cautiously. In the wrong place it can be downright disturbing. It crashes across the vision like a lightning-smashed tree. One would very rarely put a carpet on a diagonal.

The best way to understand balance is to remember your childhood teeter — tauter. Two children of equal weight balanced neatly. In decorating this sort of even balance is called "bismmetrical" or formal balance.

NOW, WHEN A big child and a little child wanted to teeter together, they could manage, but it took a little more doing. The heavier one had to move towards the center. This type of balance is "asymmetrical" or "informal."

The home decorator first settles the balance problem on the floor. For example, she may balance a sofa and table one side of the room with a chair-and-table group and a desk on the other.

WHEN THE furniture is well distributed throughout the room, the woman in charge of these arrangements is ready to start up the walls. Look at each wall as though it were a picture within a frame. Perhaps along one wall you may have stacking units.

You can cover a square section of the wall, achieving an interesting balance of open and closed units. You could also decide to use three units adjoining each other below with a fourth stacked on one end. To balance this vertical you could use tall candlesticks, a heavy ceramic or long pictures.

WOES DISAPPEAR BY RELAXING IN RECLINING CHAIR

Americans are a relaxing people and new reclining chairs cater to their whims. The Home Furnishings Industry Committee reports you'll find a variety show of talented new models in stores this season.

The greatest style advance, started several months ago, was the slimming down of recliners for homes with contemporary furniture. Thin-lined or thick, the chairs have the same comfort and ability to help knotted nerves unwind.

Foot rests do new tricks to augment the light-lined look. One jackknifes beneath the chair so only a thin base is visible when the chair is erect. Another mechanism is geared to raise the foot rest completely when the chair locks in mid-position. This provides comfortable support for the television watcher.

A vibrating recliner hides a heating pad in its back.

Seven Types Of Loans for Fix-Up Listed

There are seven types of loans for the purchasing of appliances and home improvements available from one or the other of six types of lending institutions. They are:

The conventional real estate loan finances a variety of home improvements, including built-in appliances, landscaping, barbecue pits and lawn sprinkler systems. It is not available through all types of institutions, since it is not insured by the FHA or other government agencies.

TITLE-I (FHA) insures qualified lending agencies to make improvement loans — restricting them, however, to essentials.

"Own-plan" loans, in many communities, are offered by commercial banks, savings and loan associations and trust companies. It is similar to Title I, but not insured by the government.

OPEN-END MORTGAGE financing is, since World War II, a popular means to realize home improvements. It offers the advantage of using the original mortgage interest rate over a longer period of time in which to pay. The home owner can simply borrow additional funds on his original mortgage without rewriting it or taking out a separate loan. Most savings and loan banks offer this type of financing.

A supplemental loan, or rewritten mortgage, is an extension of an old loan. Most banks holding the original note on property will extend another loan for improvement purposes.

PERSONAL LOANS can be obtained from banks, credit unions and small loan companies.

Installment contracts are familiar to almost everyone. These are made with dealers and retailers for buying "on time."

HOLIDAY MARKS 1ST ANNIVERSARY

PALM DESERT — Holiday Realty Corporation this week is marking its first anniversary, and is boasting a tremendous growth during its first year of operations in Palm Desert.

Holiday started one year ago with three employees, and now has a total of 17 sales people who represent every type of real estate transaction from lots and acreage to homes and business property.

SALES DURING the first year include 18 business properties, 47 lots, 115 homes and 36,033 acres of land. In addition, 108 rentals, both commercial and domestic, were negotiated.

Holiday also has initiated a nationwide "Correspondent Broker Plan" which enables a property owner to list property with Holiday and have it offered nationally to prospective buyers of desert property.

Among the exclusive developments Holiday handles in the Palm Desert area are Shadow Village, Bahia del Mar, and Air Park Estates at Salton Sea.

HOLIDAY ALSO offers Helen

KEEP TRAFFIC LANES COMPLETELY OPEN IN YOUR HOME

The policeman saves tempers by keeping lanes open on the highway. The homemaker protects her own equanimity by planning room arrangements so that traffic lanes are open in her house.

If you have ever stumbled through some one else's awkwardly-planned home you know how important this is. The travel paths in a room should be so clear that you could negotiate them in the dark without bumping into furniture.

Plan free access to hall closets and clothes closets. You shouldn't have to maneuver to reach the television set, desk or windows. Above all, the routes between doors should be kept open.

Reed's Real Estate School, which has taught and helped 261 sales people and brokers with their state real estate license.

Richard Coffin, Holiday president, gave full credit for the firm's success to its sales personnel.

"The entire staff from ace salesman Carl O'Dowd to the two top gals who do our typing and answer the telephone are responsible," he said. "We have tried to hire only high caliber sales people who can negotiate the best possible deal for the buyer and seller."

Put Furniture, Through Beauty, Comfort Tests

It's easy for the homemaker to develop a blind spot about her home. She is usually in it for the greater part of every day, and she spends hours trying to make it as pretty as she can.

Sometimes it doesn't chalk up to her expectations, but she cannot put her finger on the reason. That is the time for the homemaker to take a straight hard look at her furniture.

Often her furniture, like her husband, continues to appear to her just about the way it did when she married. Now no one wants her to become critical of hubby — a blind spot or two there may be a good thing. Furniture is a different matter. When your house starts to look drab, the Home Furnishings Industry Committee advocates you put it through the "comfort and beauty test."

Look at every piece of furniture and ask, "Is it comfortable? Does it still serve a good purpose? Does it help create an atmosphere of beauty in my home?"

The furniture that passes this test with three "yes" answers is still doing its job for you. Furniture that fails should be marked for replacement.

Arrange Living Room Chairs For Comfort--Good Talk Too

A family's most pleasant hours are spent in the living room. How to plan the furniture to accommodate the varied activities and to produce a serene atmosphere is usually the province of the woman of the house.

The Home Furnishings Industry Committee advises that her first thought should be chairs and seating places for relaxation. When it's time to lean back to read or to look at television there should be a comfortable spot for every one.

THERE ALSO MUST be arrangements for conversation. Figure out the number of guests you usually entertain and have that number of extra seating places available. They should be grouped so that no one gets stuck in a corner alone. The hostess who "imports" chairs from other rooms for parties should plan their placement ahead of time.

If you have a large living room and entertain extensively, chairs would be arranged so that small conversational groups could form and break up easily. In such a case you would probably consult an interior decorator.)

THE SOFA PROVIDES a long horizontal line that helps make a room an entity. Today we often demand that the sofa double as a sleeper for overnight guests.

Each seating area should be well-lighted and should adjoin a table. If you bring more chairs in your living room when you entertain, you should also arrange for more tables. Stacking tables take up little space and are one neat solution.

SOME FAMILIES require centers of activity built around a piano or a table where games are regularly played. Television and hi-fi are integral parts of most living rooms today.

A television set usually isn't a thing of beauty so it should be placed where every one can see it when necessary but where one isn't forced to stare at it when it is turned off.

THE HOMEMAKER will consider both floor and wall areas when she plans her arrangements.

The room may have an architectural feature such as a fireplace or a window with a view that is a natural and lovely center of interest. That will be her starting point and she will group the furniture so that eyes will naturally turn towards it.

Readers with lots of books in bright jackets have a strong asset on their side in planning their living rooms. Book cases on either side of a window or fireplace, or massed along a wall, are attractive attention getters. New tall furniture storage pieces and pier cabinets create similar effects.

Sun Carrier Enjoys Vacation in Hawaii

Youth, Family Return Home After Free Trip

Twelve-year-old Wayne Walker, The Desert Sun's first "Hawaiian Correspondent," returned to the resort area this week with a fresh batch of photos from the 50th state.

But Wayne, of Rancho Mirage, was too busy enjoying his expense-paid, seven-day holiday to delve into the island's internal affairs for his Sun readers.

Wayne, a Sun carrier boy, was the winner of a Hawaiian trip for two for selling the most subscriptions during an eight-week period.

Coincidentally, his mother, Alyce Walker, won a similar prize from a Los Angeles television station, so Wayne took his father, Harry Walker, as his guest while his mother escorted sister Dianne.

THE FAMILY flew round trip via Transocean Airlines, stayed at the plush Edgewater Hotel on Waikiki Beach, toured the islands as the guests of Milan Leavitt, circulation manager of the Honolulu Advertiser, and toured Pearl Harbor aboard a U.S. Navy powerboat.

Naturally, the whole family participated in the favorite island sport — surfing — and spent the rest of their time sightseeing and shopping.

Vacation Report Due Wednesday

Dr. James H. Blackstone Jr. will report on his family's summer experiences in Canada at the regular Wednesday evening prayer service of the Palm Springs Community Church.

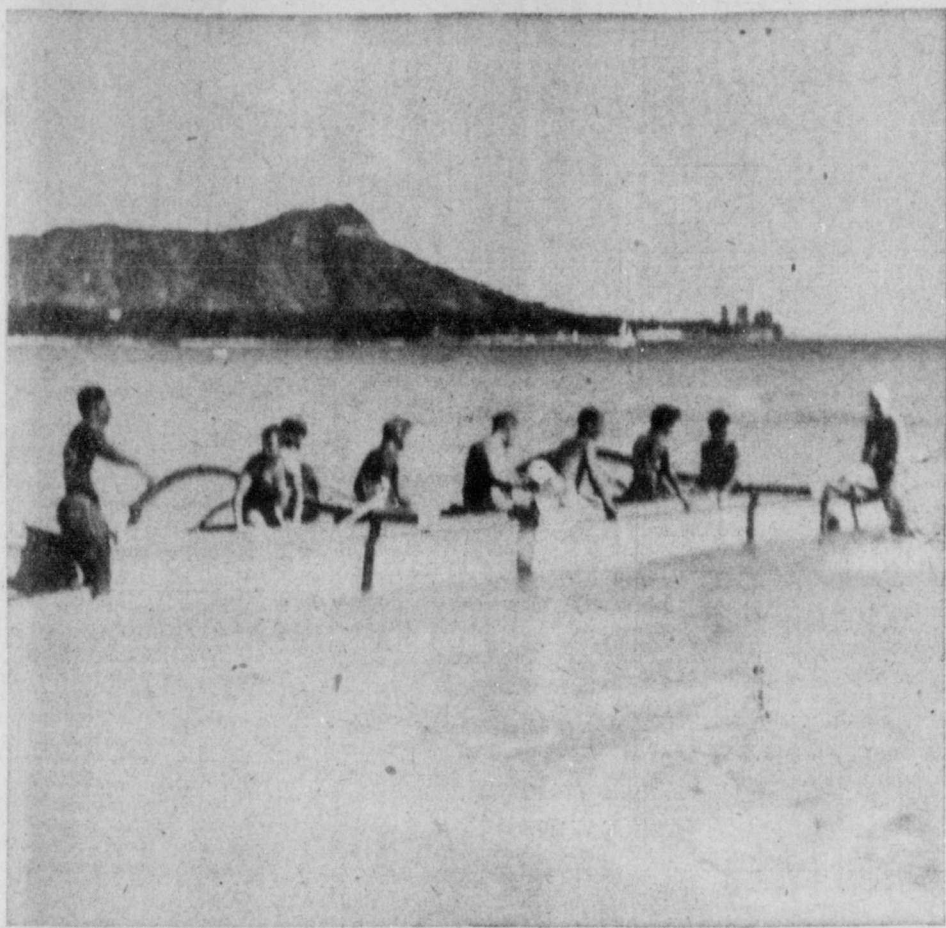

Dr. Blackstone plans to show slides of Catalina Island, Vancouver, B.C., and the Malibu resort north of Vancouver, where the Blackstone family spent much of their summer vacation time.

The service starts at 7:30 p.m., and refreshments will be served afterwards.

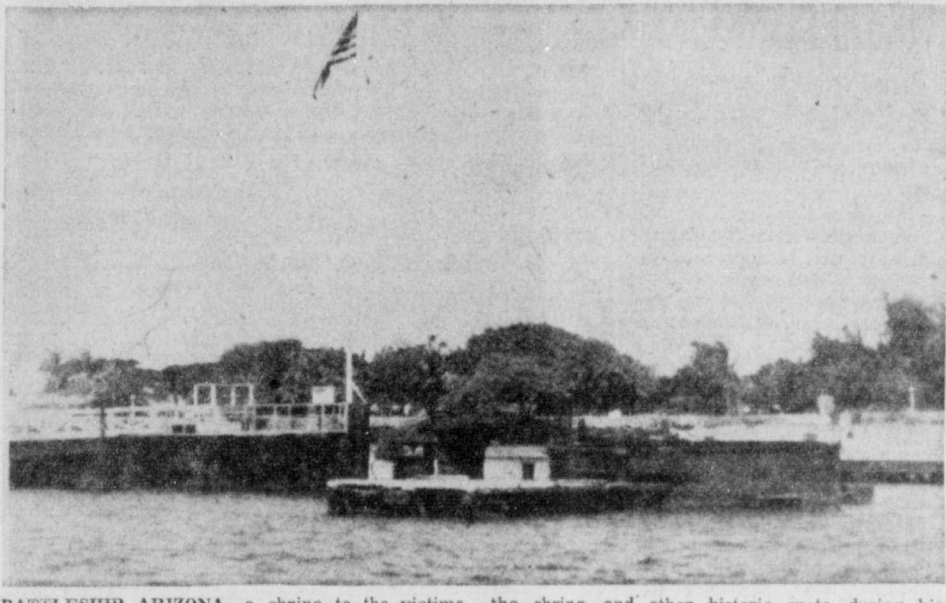

Dr. Blackstone also announced that the high school Youth Fellowship group will meet at the same time Wednesday for prayer, Bible study and fellowship, under the direction of Rev. and Mrs. Edwin P. Rogers.

ISLANDERS PUSH THEIR outrigger into the surf—with Diamond Head rising majestically in the background—in this picture taken by Desert Sun carrier boy Wayne Walker. The young merchant took his camera along with him, photographed the islands and returned these films to the paper.

BATTLESHIP ARIZONA, a shrine to the victims of Japan's Dec. 7, 1941, sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, lies half-submerged in the exact spot where it was stricken. Californians Should Unite In Support of Statewide Water Plan

A little more than a year hence the people of California will be given an opportunity to vote on the $1.75 billion bond issue to finance the proposed Statewide water project.

This was definitely assured with signing of the enabling legislation by Governor Brown who described the final passage of plans for the great project as the crowning achievement of the 1959 Legislature.

The State's chief executive accompanied the announcement with a statement supporting the issue as necessary to the solution of one of California's most urgent and essential requirements. Pointing out that the present 15,000,000 population of the State is destined to increase to 31,000,000 persons by 1985, the Governor emphasized the necessity of water development and distribution as an absolute necessity for the economic growth of all sections. He also made it clear that the project would be self supporting from water revenues and that only the areas receiving benefits would pay the costs.

In spite of clearly defined needs and benefits of the Statewide water system, and the unassailable reasons for its ap- all sections and individuals in a State so large and with such varied interests proval at the polls, it is becoming apparent even at this early date that there will be some opposition.

It is impossible to visualize any project, however meritorious, which will meet with the unanimous agreement of and occupations as California.

It also must be recognized that since the major source of water is in the northern sector, the necessity of first securing rights and storage to assure adequate supplies for the distribution to southern areas presents problems almost impossible of complete accord.

The public should not lose sight of the fact that the plan proposed is the result of two decades of effort and study, that it offers a solution to a vital necessity, that it will be self supporting and of great benefit to every resident of California.

The future welfare of the entire State is dependent upon its passage and the great majority of Californians should unite in support with an overwhelmingly favorable vote at the polls next November.

How to Build a Dam

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It doesn't pay to look for replicas in international affairs. But similarities can be found in abundance—and these are often helpful in the search for knowledge.

In Egypt the State Department once undertook to help build a high level dam on the Nile River at Aswan. In the Punjab and Sind Provinces of India, along the Pakistan borderland, the State Department is encouraging the World Bank to finance the building of an irrigation complex in the Indus River system to serve both India and Pakistan.

SOMEHOW WE botched up the first job. After promising Egypt that we would help construct the Aswan Dam, the late Secretary Dulles did not like Egyptian President Nasser's behavior and canceled the promise. The result was that for several years Nasser turned against the West, threw the British out of the Suez Canal, flirted with Moscow and raised havoc in the Middle East.

More by good luck than good management (and because Moscow played the part of a heel), we managed to bungle through. Today a period of relative peace reigns in the Middle East where the various peoples are working things out on their own. But it was a close call!

OVER IN THE Pakistani-Indian subcontinent we did much better. Here the problems and possibilities of "water economy" are immense. The Indus river system, rising in the Himalayan Mountains and flowing through India and Pakistan to the Arabian Sea, is twice as voluminous as the Nile and nearly 10 times greater in the volume of discharge than the Colorado.

Irrigation of the Indus Basin is centuries old, and it is being steadily modernized and extended to meet modern conditions. The division of the waters between India and Pakistan has often seemed to be one of those irreconcilable conflicts.

IT COMPARES in our country with North vs. South, in the Middle East with Arabs vs. Israeli, in Europe with France vs. Germany. Surely, it raises the central question of our times: can the clash of national interests be settled without war?

Well, how have we met this test? In July '58 the Pakistani commissioners came to London with their plan for the Indus water division—the Indians rejected it. Last November the Indian spokesmen brought their plan to Washington—the Pakistani rejected it.

LAST DECEMBER one of America's quasi-official statesmen, Eugene Black of the International Bank, offered a plan which attempted to bring the contestants together. By this past summer the Black plan, refined and revised, has been accepted as a basis of discussion by India and Pakistan.

This is the situation as Red China, the Far Eastern phase of the Communist Revolution, comes probing through the Himalayas to the border provinces of India.

A FEW YEARS AGO the Red columns would have been entering an area where the local nations were locked in a private quarrel. The Reds might have joined forces with one side or the other. After all, Stalin was accepted by the Allies in World War II. Khrushchev came close to being accepted as the torpedo man for Nasser in his war against the Israeli and the West.

But this sort of thing has not happened in the Indus Basin—and it won't. While the water rights are far from settled, the free world coalition there is strong and indivisible. For once, an American-led diplomatic enterprise has come off very well. And we are learning how to build these international dams, with all their far-ranging implications. —Holmes Alexander

Servicemen as 'Ambassadors'

U. S. Servicemen stationed overseas perform a vital duty for their country. But sometimes they can be America's worst ambassadors.

In most countries, particularly in Asia, there is little quarrel on the higher level over stationing of troops in a nation, either as "defense" forces or a military advisory group training that nation's troops.

MOST RESPONSIBLE leaders recognize the service these U. S. troops perform and the reason for it.

It is on the lower, personnel level where the trouble comes. Let a U. S. serviceman get in a drunken brawl, rob a taxi, assault a woman or get involved in any of numerous other escapades with Asians and the "Yankee go home" spirit gets stronger.

LATEST INCIDENT of this type came in Japan where a U. S. Air Force officer was accused of entering a house while drunk and raping a 32-year-old housemaid.

This was an incident that a certain segment of the press relates.

Whether the officer did or did not rape the woman and whether he will even be formally charged was beside the point.

TO MILLIONS of Japanese, the officer is guilty. Newspapers have already quoted the alleged victim as calling him a "beast" whom she could never forgive.

The result—a drop in U. S. prestige.

In Korea, hardly a week goes by without a report of the shooting of a Korean by American troops. Most of these have developed from attempted thefts by Koreans at U. S. installations.

BUT EVEN THOUGH thefts have been involved, there has been criticism of trigger-happy U. S. servicemen for shooting first and thinking afterwards.

If a man is fleeing, why shoot? And if the guard has to shoot, why shoot to kill is the Asian view.

In the Philippines there is a current controversy over the alleged "murder" of Filipinos who were shot and killed when they attempted to escape after being caught pilfering at the U. S. Clark Air Force Base.

THE PILFERERS actually were shot by Filipino guards hired by the Air Force. But this fact is glossed over by America's critics who blame the Air Force.

QUOTES

NEW DELHI — Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, on the Soviet moon shot:

"In old astrology the moon used to affect human destiny. It is now being obviously reversed. Now the poor moon is pursued."

The United States has spent billions of dollars in Asia since the end of World War II in an attempt to better the life of the area's people.

But one irresponsible act by one serviceman can destroy the benefits that thousands of others worked for.

A CLASSIC EXAMPLE of the serviceman who seriously damaged relations between his country and the people of an Asian nation was William S. Girard, the soldier who shot and killed a Japanese woman on a U. S. firing range.

This one action brought Japanese opinion of America to one of its lowest points since World War II.

It is the Communists who greet such incidents with glee. COMMUNIST CHINA'S New China News Agency, in its broadcasts beamed to Asia points, takes great delight in giving its listeners reports, usually slanted, about the American in Japan, Okinawa, Formosa or the Philippines. They are usually accompanied by another demand for U. S. troops to get out of Asia.

Asians say that the U. S. government, like most Americans, wants to be liked and to be respected and perhaps works too hard at it.

But it's a difficult desire to achieve with foul balls in uniforms walking around. —UPI Commentary

'With That Tie, They Won't Notice the Pants'

This Side of The Sun

By Phat

Oh, say can you see
By the dawn's early light,
And I'll bet you, too,
Can't get the rest of it right.

Anyway, 145 years ago yesterday, Francis Scott Key wrote our National Anthem, The Star Spangled Banner.

IT WAS WRITTEN aboard ship below Fort Mifflin near Baltimore during the bombardment in the War of 1812.

It has been estimated by eminent statisticians that probably 62.5 per cent of patriotic U. S. citizens know the words of the first verse — and 78.7 the last two lines.

But only about 4.3 per cent know the words of the entire anthem.

And I'll bet, that off - hand, you can't say how many verses there are or how many lines.

Well, there are three, eight long lines each.

THAT WAS yesterday. Today marks another important day in the nation, but not in Palm Springs.

This is Felt Hat Day. The day we are supposed to discard the panamas and the sailors and so on, and don felt hats.

But nobody here wears hats much anyway and men wearing felt hats on Palm Canyon Drive are subject to curious scrutiny by natives.

So that's one day we won't celebrate.

AND FOR YOU record fans and music lovers — it was 50 years ago today that W. C. Handy wrote a political song for a Memphis, Tenn., campaign.

The original words were forgotten but not the tune. Now we know it as "Memphis Blues," reputedly the first Blues song to be written down and published as such.

WHEN I GOT BACK to my desk after the long vacation, I found a clipping from the Hemet News there.

It was from Homer King's readable column "Observations." Mr. King had highly complimented me by reprinting one of my columns.

With comments to let his readers know who I am. THIS IS TO CORRECT an apparently mistaken impression the veteran Hemet editor has.

I didn't mind his calling me a "delightful old codger" although that "delightful" must have been an effort.

But I have to protest his closing remarks.

"Phat," he wrote, "is now editor emeritus of The Desert Sun" and writes his columns dressed in purple shorts, relaxing by a pool, with six glasses of Tom Collins.

FIRST OFF, I haven't dribbled a Collins over where my tonsils used to be, for I don't know how many years.

And secondly, Homer, I only once, in a weak moment, bought a pair of Bermuda shorts. And they were grey, not purple.

They didn't last long. I put them on and happened to walk by a full-length mirror in Mrs. G's room.

When I recovered I took 'em off.

Gave them to my son who's considerably younger and has the legs for them.

But thanks again for that "delightful."

STAN DELAPLANE'S Postcard

It is still swimming weather. (Though the days do seem to be getting a little shorter.)

Down at the high school, the football spirals into the blue sky. And eager youths in red-and-white jerseys prepare to die for honor, glory and the girl in the third row in study hall.

IT IS AN EXCITING season for the village dogs. Our village dogs hold their morning meetings down at the post office. The football field is right alongside and it livens things up a good deal.

Since we have a 16-year-old daughter on the prospects of Our Team vs. Their Team. (I suspect one of the jerseyed youths is prepared to die for our child. I hope so. For I am just about worn out and would gladly let somebody else do a little dying.)

ANYWAY, I FIND that Our Team looks good this year. And may well give Their Team its Jumps. We lost last year. But it was a mistake.)

I have even offered to go down to school and give some of my own tricky plays to them. But I am forbidden to even MENTION such a thing. Because if I did we would all just DIE! Please.

VERY WELL. But don't blame me if Their Team beats Our Team.

When your father was wearing a colorful jersey and football spiraled into another autumn sky, I was known as "The Terror of the Ten-Yard Line."

"The X quantity that puts Our Team ahead of Their Team, my dear, is School Spirit," I said. "And I would be glad to go down and speak of School Spirit if —"

"Please!" "OKAY. OKAY. I was probably the greatest School Spirit speaker of my day. The day, by the way, was Friday. Because we played on Saturday. Each Friday, I rose and made a speech on the subject."

We all spoke, as I remember. Each member of the team. We had a students' assembly on Friday before the Game. We spoke and we implored each other to have School Spirit.

IT WAS LIKE religion. If you had School Spirit, the opposition was baffled. Your passes connected. And holes opened in the other line like a barn door swinging open.

We were wonderful speakers. I think that was the best speaking team ever assembled. An All-American speaking team.

Unfortunately, none of us played football very well.

AS I RECALL now, I do not think any team ever had such a great speaking record and such a string of defeats. We did not win a single game!

Once we got a 0-0 tie. (We met another bunch of talkers who could not play, either.)

That was as close as we came to victory.

There seems to be a lot of emphasis on winning games down at our village high school. None on School Spirit.

TOO BAD My child will not let me address the students. Because that is one thing that I could pass on to them. I never could pass a football very well — how can you when they make it that crazy shape?

But School Spirit! I do not even need any protection when I am flinging THAT ball around. We all made about the same speech.

When you were introduced (we were always introduced, each Friday). When you were introduced, you rose in a slouchy but relaxed and intrepid sort of way. It is hard to describe.

YOU ROSE AND you said: "Well, gang (pause). Gang, we are up against old Roquefort High tomorrow. (Pause.) And I don't have to tell you what that means. (Long pause, searching look.)"

"They are GOOD, gang. (pause). But we are BETTER, gang. (Long pause for applause.) And there's only one thing that will beat them — School Spirit! (Wild applause.) You then sat down, exhausted."

WE WERE SPIRITED as could be. But that year, Their Team had a boy who went on to become an All-American half-back and later a professional. He couldn't talk worth a hoot and had no school spirit that I could see.

Mainly because most of the time I was flat on my back and all I could see was the blue autumn sky.

"High educational costs have disillusioned Junior about marriage! He says his wife doesn't make enough to put him through college... He says he still needs parents!"

EARL WILSON:

Eddie's a Politician

NEW YORK — You've met guys who say to you when you drop in — at least I hope you've met such guys — anyway, these guys say, "Have a drink?"

Eddie Albert says, "Have a pill?" To Eddie Albert, this is the height of hospitality. When he handed me a $4.98 bottle of protein pills to prove he was sincere in his generosity, I took out three and stuck them in my shirt pocket, so he only had 1,789 left. I trust the supply lasted him the rest of that day, but I can't be certain.

"Bob Cummings eats pills for lunch, too," I said.

"Bob Cummings must eat a hundred of these a day and he's a ball of fire!" Eddie Albert was running around his hotel room in circles proving that the pills were wonderful and that now he wasn't nervous or upset or at all concerned at all about anything and especially about the TV show he was going to do in a few hours.

"How do you eat these pills?" I asked.

"What pills?" Eddie Albert asked. "Oh, these I have in my hand. Oh yes. Well, I put a fistful in my pocket and I nibble them most of the day."

"I find if I don't use them," he laughed, rather hollowly, "that I get into political arguments—I take either side—or I find fault with the management. I just keep popping them into my mouth all day and..."

"Did you ever try 'Tiger's Milk'?" I asked him.

"I practically lived on 'Tiger's Milk'!" Eddie sang out the sentence in a manner that practically convinced me he had his own personal tiger. "It's in one of the health food recipe books. I must start back on 'Tiger's Milk' right away."

Before you go out and order yourself a tiger, let me explain that it's a drink made up of various health food ingredients. I doubt if a tiger would drink it, but for human beings and actors, it's quite good.

"What else do you do?" I inquired.

"I do a lot of exercises... surf-board riding and all that. I happen to be a little tense today. I try to keep the cholesterol from clogging up..."

Eddie explained that doing the Jack Paar TV show tended to tense him up. One night when he was subbing for Jack, he had both Ben Hecht and Sheila Graham on his panel. He figured that by the time they got done assassinating characters, he'd have quite a show. To his astonishment, both of them loved everybody that night.

"So, all you can do on that show," he said, "is to wake up in the morning, and start to worry, and when it's getting close to air time, you pray."

I was about to leave. "Eddie," I said.

"Yes." His voice was far, far away.

"I've had a tough hour," I said.

"Could I please..." He knew. He understood. He handed me the bottle of pills.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Marilyn Monroe is a poison ivy victim — got it on her Conn. farm... Marlon Brando and France Nuyen chop-sticked at East of Suez... Susan Cabots new admirer is a N.Y. restaurateur, who sends hot meals backstage where she's rehearsing "The Golden Fleece."

Andy Griffith of "Destry" is making an album of fairy tales... Will Rogers Jr. may portray his dad in the TV spectacular, "A Night At The Palace"...

Now that "Suzy Wong" has been a B-way hit for more than a year, Julie Styne and Bob Hilliard are finally composing a title song... Mae West is dickering for an L.A. hotel... Pretty Joan Esme Rylander, a Yale Drama School student, will appear on NBC-TV's "What Makes Sammy Run?"
